Carmel Little League Opens Play Monday Evening At 5:30 O'clock

With pre-game ceremonies befitting a major league opening, Carmel's Little League opens the 1959 season Monday afternoon as the Sport Shop squares off against Boys' Town, 1958 Champions. At 5:30 o'clock a color guard ffom the Naval Air Facility will help get the season off to a good start and will be followed by a baseball demonstration put on by Mayor John Chitwood, J. O. Handley, and Police Chief Clyde Klaumann. Mayor Chitwood will toe the slab and breeze in the first pitch while Handley swings the lumber and attempts to connect before Chief Klaumann makes the catch. When the amateurs have cleared the field, Managers Lew McCreery (Sport Shop) and George Macy (Boys' Town) will gather in conference with Umpire-in-Chief Howard Baxter to exchange lineups and cover the ground rules, and the 1959 season will be officially underway.

President Bill Woolsey and his corps of helpers are confident that the 1959 season will surpass even the ultra-successful season enjoyed by the Little Leaguers in 1958. Improvements have been made in tryouts and player selection, another team has been added to the farm team circuit, the playing field has been manicured and the dugouts renovated, and a new hot dog dispenser will solve the dinner problem for the Little League boosters.

Monday's opener shapes up as an even-up title with both teams boasting rosters which include eight veteran performers with previous Little League experience. Sport Shop managers Lew McCreery and Newt Goodrich have indicated they will go with veteran pitcher Howdy King in the opener, while Boys' Town mentors George Macy and Gene Bray will likely counter with righthander Tom Leutzinger. In keeping with Carmel Little Leauge's policy of one-hundred percent participation, every boy on both teams is assured of seeing action in the game. The Sport Shop roster includes Howdy King, Craig Harder, Robin Smith, Holly Garcia, Steve Halminski, Peter McArthur, Larry Thompson, Pat Woolsey Tim Peterson, Ron Mumford, Mel Grimes, Rollie Champe, and Louis Shone. 8 Months Later Planners Unveil Same Old Do-nut

BY WILMA COOK

Yesterday afternoon, the Carmel Planning Commission approved a report of their chairman's committee's progress on the Do-Nut Plan (The City Officials' Central Business District Zoning Plan, alias the Adams Plan).

The report, outlining a new zoning pattern for the city, as read by Herb Blanks, is altogether familiar. In the eight months of study since the council referred the plan to them, the planning commission have made no substantial change in the original as concocted by three city officials: Building Inspector Floyd Adams, City Clerk Lawrence Rose and City Attorney John Morse.

As in the original officials' version, the plan radically changes the present zoning restrictions in that it disperses "service uses" (laundries, service stations, light industry) roughly in a circle around the "central core" retail-commercial district, whereas under present zoning, with the exception of a few service stations which were in existence before the zoning was enacted, these undesirable "service" uses are confined to about six blocks in the north east portion of the business district, on and east of Junipero, north of Ocean. The Do-Nut plan would, in effect, pretty up Junipero's motel row and open up hitherto protected areas of the business district to unsightly, noisy and undesirable services and light industry.

Another radical change from present zoning is the creation of a transition zone in the business district along the line of division between commercial and residence districts. Uses in this zone would be limited to motels, apartment houses, professional offices, clubs, and related enterprise.

The plan has one desirable feature. The central business core is zoned so that no multiple dwellings are permitted other than second story apartments. However, in the new C-S (commercial service zone) motels are allowed, and in the outer circle (C-R), aside from professional offices and club buildings, little else than motels are permitted.

The plan does not provide an answer to the citizen's urgent demands that no more motels be allowed in the community.

The Do-Nut came into being last summer when Mayor John Chitwood, without discussion with or approval of the council, directed the city officials to work out a central district master plan. When the mayor unveiled it before the council in September in the form of a Do-Nut like chart of zones in concentric circles around a "central business core" the council regarded it grimly, and without discussion, comment or study, referred it to the planning commission for study and report.

The planning commission after eight months of mulling over it, and fiddling with details, have decided that it might be advantageous to find out what the council thinks of it before they go to the labor and expense of implementing

San Simeon Highway Out Of Freeway Plan

Assemblyman Allen Pattee wrote City Clerk Larry Rose this week to say that Senator Randolph Collier has promised him that the San Simeon Highway will be deleted from the State Freeway master plan. A copy of the bill, mailed to the Pine Cone by Senator Fred Farr, shows that this has been done. We are grateful to both of them, but while we're thanking our legislators, let's not forget the Point Lobos League, which discovered the San Simeon Highway in the State plan, called attention of the city council to it, and while the council was getting around to passing a resolution, called upon conservationists and conservation organizations throughout the state to exert their influence in Sacramento. Lobos League Directors active in the project were: Francis Whitaker, C. Edward Graves and Margaret Owings.

The city council resolution requesting the deletion passed by a three to two vote. No voters were Mayor John Chitwood and Councilman Jim Buffington. The county supervisors refused four to one to ask for deletion. The supervisor voting yes, ours, Tom Hudson.

Tom Hudson's Green Belt

When he made everybody mad voting for less than acre minimum lots (three-quarters less) for Carmel Knolls Subdivision, Supervisor Tom Hudson said he had an idea for a Green Belt without acre minimum building sites.

Tuesday night at dinner with some cronies, he revealed it. He would form a green belt corporation to receive donations of land or funds for green belt (some land has already been offered, he says) and to arrange for scenic easements. Also, he believes that better than by acre minimum sites, a green belt could be achieved by allowing subdividers to develop part of their land on small building sites while leaving large blocks of less buildable sites for green belt. He is planning a conference at Asilomar on May 7 when he will elaborate on his ideas and also present a speaker from the east, William Whyte, an expert on the subject of green belt.

And now that the San Simeon Highway is reasonably safe, Margaret Owings has turned her efforts to defeat Senate Concurrent Resolution 46 when it comes before the Assembly. The measure would authorize killing off 75 percent of the sea lion population cludes Mike Paul, Tom Leutzinger, Steve Trapkus, Andre Pashin, Maynard Peterson, Harold Willioms, Clinton Macy, Mike Bray, Lyn Beckley, Tom Verser, Mark Snopkowski, Gerald Pullen, and Richard Oleson.

A sharp-eyed umpiring crew headed by Howard Baxter will make all the important field adjudications during the season. Members of the men-in-blue staff are Reed Pollack, Don Mitchell, Joe Oenning, Raymond Bard, Jake May, Joe Anzini, Phil Smith, Jack Montgomery, Lloyd Cunningham, Dave Erickson, Mike Balaz, Floyd Carter, and Sumner Wilson. Covering the play-by-play at the microphone will be Bob Hutchinson, while the intricate job of keeping the scorebook will be handled by John DuBets, Bob McGinnis, Stan Cummings, Jack Garcia, and Pam Anderson.

Little League schedule for the remainder of the week finds Turner & McEldowney playing Pilot Market on Tuesday, Wilder & Jones against San Carlos Agency on Wednesday, Pilot vs. Sport Shop on Thursday, and Boys' Town versus Wilder & Jones on Friday. The Farm Teams start league play on Saturday, May 2, with one game at 10:00 in the morning, 12 noon, and one at 2:00 in the afternoon.

Little League fans are reminded of the annual drive in behalf of the Monterey Peninsula Volunteer Services. The collection begins Monday at game time.

CARMEL MERCHANTS BEAT POINT SUR; PLAY AT HOLLISTER FRIDAY NIGHT

Classy one-hit pitching by big Howard Simms produced the first win of the season for the Carmel Merchants who are preparing for action in the A-division of the Pacific Grove Softball League. Simms had his fast one humming by the Point Sur batters as he struck out 14 and gave up three walks. While Big Howard was blanking the visitors his mates were collecting 11 hits off Navy pitchers Bordwine and Wieberth. Paul Ricketson, veteran Merchant catcher, got two blows in four chances at the plate to lead the Carmel hitters.

Manager Paul Artellan and Coach Don Sands have banded together a veteran softball aggregation to represent the Merchants this season and with three top-flight hurlers should be one of the best teams in the Coast Counties area. The Merchant roster includes pitchers Beryl and Red Hartsock and Howard Simms, catcher Bill Kennedy or Paul Ricketson, infielders Jack McGaughey, Neno Aiello, Fritz Lembach, Gary Childs, and Jack Duckworth; outfielders Frank Silva, Jim Fisher, Dennis Narvaez, Jim Cherry, Eddie Jones, and player-manager Artellan.

The Merchants travel to Hollister this Friday night for a practice game with the Hollister Merchants.

LIVE OAK HIGH UPSETS CARMEL NINE

B-Division Standings

	Won	Lost
Pacific Grove	3	0
King City	2	1
Gonzales	2	1
Carmel	1	2
Live Oak	1	2
San Lorenzo	0	3

A porous infield together with silent bats betrayed Carmel High's varsity baseball squad last Friday afternoon and the winless Live Oak nine upset the Padres, 6 to 2, to push the local preps into the second division of the CCAL B-section. Joe Fernandez, Live Oak's classy southpaw pitcher, held the Padres to a pair of singles over the 7-inning route. Larry Dufur, Padre centerfielder, picked up both Carmel hits as his mates proved easy victims to the clever Live Oak pitching. The Acorns hit the scoreboard for a hefty four-run lead in the first frame as the Giant-like Carmel infield made four errors and pitcher Phil O'Shea gave up two walks and three hits. Pitcher Fernandez' double with two mates on the paths was the big blow for the visitors in the big first inning. Live Oak pushed the lead to six runs in the second frame as Randy Mullins hit a triple down the right field line to drive in a run and scored on a Padre throwing error. Carmel scored a pair in the fifth heat as Fernandez developed a streak of wildness and walked the bases full.

Carmel's junior-varsity nine gave the local preps an even break in the double-header by clipping the Live Oak Jayvees, 6 to 3, as Forest Cornwall threw a two-hitter at the visitors. The Little Padres got off to a two-run lead in the first inning and lead all the way.

CARMEL HIGH TRACK TEAM MAKES GOOD SHOWING IN ATASCADERO RELAYS

Carmel High's nine-man track squad came through with good performances in all events entered in the Atascadero Relays last Saturday and every man on the squad came home with a medal. Top performance was turned in by Phil White who set a new record in the pole vault with a 12-foot leap. Phil also won the broad to pick up ten points for the Padre cause. Carmel's distance twins, Pete Hanson and Frank Wallace, finished in front in the mile and half-mile respectively to post 10 more points for the Padres. Other point-getters for Carmel were Craig Smith, 5th in the 440; Russ Wise, 3rd in the high jump; Nick Vertin, 3rd in the pole vault; Bill Harder, 2nd in the low hurdles and 4th in the highs; and Al Dahlstrand 2nd in the high hurdles and 2nd in the lows.

The Padre tracksters entertain Pacific Grove and Junipero at Bardarson Field this afternoon and hit the road for the Martinez Relays this Saturday.

CIRCLING THE BASES

Lots of baseball action in store for Peninsula fans as the Little League circuits swing into action along with the preps and the Monterey Peninsula College nine. Carmel's Little League gets off winging next Monday and the Seaside and Monterey Leagues will open shortly thereafter. High School baseball is on the improve in both the A and B sections of the CCAL with more boys participating than ever before. Most of the high schools are fielding junior-varsity squads which provide excellent training for future varsity performers. Monterey Peninsula College has its best team in history and is no longer a patsy for the other schools in the Coast JC conference. Coach Pete Peletta and Larry Segovia, former Monterey High and MPC stars, have done an excellent job with the Lobos this season and have them in the first division of the fast JC league. The Lobos split a pair with Vallejo JC last Saturday, winning behind pitcher Mickey Chapin and losing the nightcap behind Carmel's Dick Jennings. Another conference double-header is on tap at the MPC diamond at 12 o'clock this Saturday. . . . Word from the Pittsburgh Pirate training camp in Jacksonville, Florida has it that Carmel's Tim O'Shea has developed arm trouble and will be sidelined for two or three weeks. Tim is making his first try at professional ball and has been bearing down hard in an effort to win a place in the Pirate farm system. . . . Henry Overin and Bobby Updike, former Carmel High baseball greats, are leaving next week for a summer of baseball in Nebraska. Overin will be managing a semi-pro club in Wayne while Updike plans to play on the club and help Henry with the Little League program in Wayne. The two ex-Padres have been getting in shape by working out with the Carmel High varsity for the past two weeks. . . . Carmel High's varsity and jayvee squads took lessons from the Monterey teams this week, the junior-varsity getting clipped, 9 to 0, and the varsity getting the treatment, 9 to 2. The clever pitching of the Toreadore junior-varsity limited Carmel to a scratch single by Baxter Garcia while the combined hurling of Buddy Radcliffe and Larry James limited the Padre to an infield single by Chris Wilkin. Monterey's varsity is a powerhouse in the CCAL A-division and the Toreadore junior-varsity has power

CONSTELLATIONS OF THE ZODIAC

Taurus, the Bull, Zodiac Sign from 21 April to 21 May, led the heavenly procession in the first month of Spring 4,000 years ago. The red first magnitude star Aldebaran will locate him, with the Hyades nearby. He stands between the Pleiades and Orion in the Western sky on Spring early evenings. Orion, the great hunter, with the bright stars called the Three Kings in his belt, is seeking him, for he stands in his way toward the Pleiades, the Seven Sisters, whose company Orion found to his taste.

To the Egyptians, Taurus symbolized resurrection, the Sacred Bull, Apis, his horns bearing the Sun disc across the sky. The Hebrews called Taurus head of their signs, representing Joseph. Taurus became the Ox of sacrifice in the Gospel of Saint Luke, becoming his sign in Christian symbolism. He is the Ox of Ezekiel's dream and of Revelations.

The ancient Chinese called him the Golden Ox, as did Indian tribes in South and Central America. The Greeks considered him the Bull whose form Jupiter assumed to carry off Europa.

He represented strength, earthly power. He was probably chosen as the Spring sign, for in that season, the Bull was yoked to the plow to till the soil. His strength increased the herds, also.

Aldebaran is a double star, 68 light years from the Earth. The Hyades is a loose cluster of about 150 stars at twice that distance. The Pleiades are several hundred stars wrapped in a faint nebula. They were said to be the seven daughters of Atlas. Merope dimmer her light to escape the advances of Orion, who favored her above her sisters.

Taurus is in the house of Venus. It is the sign of the neck and throat. Its symbol is the sun disc, surmounted by a crescent, quite suggestive of a bull's face and horns.

—Howell Armor.

Effie Brown

With the passing of Effie Brown, who after many months in a Salinas hospital died last Sunday, Carmel has lost one of its well loved and picturesque citizens.

Effie was a majestic figure, six feet tall and rounded. A native of Sweden, she was fair with very blue smiling eyes. When she left Sweden in her youth she went to England, and there she met and married Alan White, an expert tailor, a little man, as jolly as his wife. Effie and Alan came to Carmel about 20 years ago. Their great love of music and warm hospitality won them many friends. Through Alan's tailoring and Effie's needlework they prospered moderately, and their little house on Mountain View was a popular spot. Their daughter married Colonel John Kaye, and two grandsons, John and Bill, grew up in this area. About seven years ago Alan died. Effie concentrated on dressmaking and tailoring. She was intensely proud of her grandson Bill who appeared in local theatrical productions, with Effie always in the front row on opening nights.

About two years ago Effie's hands became crippled with arthritis. She moved to a tiny cottage on San Carlos and her great hearty laugh continued to bring pleasure to her neighbors. Her daughter, an invalid, was hospitalized, and it was her devoted son-in-law Colonel Kay, who bolstered Effie's morale.

Just before Christmas 1958 Effie Brown walked down Ocean Avenue, giving her cheery hellos to practically every one she met, because practically all Carmelites knew Effie, and then she went into the hospital. Effie Brown was fine and kind, and she carried happiness in her heart that was contagious.

Music On The Peninsula

By Mary Lindsay-Oliver

The Stockton Chorale of 20 women and 13 men, conducted by Arthur J. Holton, performed an interesting program last Sunday in the Church of the Wayfarer. Although, as Holton explained to the large audience present, the group is not a professional once, it has performed in most of California's major cities. They gave an exceptionally interesting program with dignity and assurance. Composed largely of college students, they have appeared in "grass-roots" opera and in Berlioz's Requiem with the San Francisco Symphony orchestra. Sunday they showed plenty of voice, energy and training that reflected great credit on their conductor.

Accompanying them on a piano, in four hands, were Karen Cummings and Carolyn Dodge, demonstrating strong pianistic ability, particularly the latter who performed alone in Randall Thompson's The Treatment of Freedom, set to Jefferson's immortal words. This was sung by the men alone in a stirring manner, after Hilton gave out the words, so apt for this age. Pueri Hebracorum, another composition by Thompson, was well performed by the Women's Choir. Negro Spirituals, with a solo by Shelby Squier, in the touching Were You There, and a tenor solo by a singer whose name added to the really fine feeling and modulations of the chorus who, in the combined singing were perhaps best in the Spiritual group. As an encore to a surprising powerful rendition of the second act chorus from Verdi's Aida was given. They had opened with the lengthy Brahm's Liebeslieder Waltzes, a difficult but entrancing work which, in its intricate writing, is not so easy of enunciation but was carried forward convincingly, its waltz rythms fortified by the four-hand playing of the two pianists. Altogether it was an outstanding interesting choral event, with a strong conductor in Arthur Holton.

it with a zoning ordinance on which the council would have the final say.

City Clerk Larry Rose was instructed yesterday to arrange a joint meeting of council and planners as soon as possible to discuss the "progress report."

Before they got to the Do-Nut plan report, the planners disapproved a proposed ordinance, designed to halt additional motel construction, sent to them for study by the council. The ordinance would require 2000 square feet minimum site per motel unit. The planners said their 1000 square feet minimum site interim ordinance is slowing down the motel construction. There hadn't been an application for several months. (The Fenton Block motel would have conformed to the 1000 per square foot minimum site; several motels already built do so). The planners preened themselves on how much pretty landscaping they have been getting lately from the motels, and Hugh Smith conveyed the impression that so long as the motels had lots of nice set back and landscaping, he thought they should be allowed. None of the planners disagreed.

A proposed ordinance to limit size of commercial buildings, aimed at large shopping centers and chain stores, would have also been turned down, but somebody pointed out that Col. De Camp has put a lot of work on it and he should be allowed to tell about it, anyway, so it was put over for further study with Col. De Camp, a matter of courtesy.

Monterey Founded For The Church And Marketplace

By J. William MacLennan

PART IV.

The years 1846 through 1849 were memorable ones in Monterey. When the American forces under Admiral Sloat landed, the Rev. Walter Colton was appointed mayor. At that time Monterey, the largest city in California, had about 1200 inhabitants. The San Carlos Mission was in ruins and inhabited, according to Colton, by one lone white owl. Yet in its graveyard lie buried Padres Serra and Crespi with many other Franciscans, and also 15 governors of California.

Once the San Carlos Mission maintained 87,000 heads of cattle, 1800 horses, 365 yokes of oxen and 6000 sheep. Then, when California became part of Mexico, the Mexican government ordered the Mission closed and its assets distributed. These went chiefly to a few prominent people. Estaban Munras obtained 30,000 acres which some of his descendants still hold. De la Guerra in Santa Barbara got 300,000 acres. The San Julian Ranch, famous for its fine breed of horses and owned by some of that family, was part of the Mission lands.

Though much of what we today consider necessities was lacking in the homes of the people of Monterey, they were always ready for a good time, ready to put off any disagreeable task until tomorrow, and, at the slightest excuse, to keep putting it off. The whole duty of man seemed to be to eat, to sleep, to plot revolution, a little —to ride the range, to drink, and to make love, serenading his beloved with guitar and song.

"I don't know if you love me,
You don't say . . ."

or

So fair and still the night is,
The very wind's asleep . . ."

or the beautiful Adios Amores

"Farewell, O love forever . . ."

One of Colton's first acts was to close the grog-shops, fearing the damage drunken American sailors and soldiers might do in Monterey. Brandy soared from 40 cents a gallon to $4.00. But as that did not stop drunkenness, he secured a building for a jail, and was much annoyed when the Mexican prisoners, usually there for stealing cattle, begged for their guitars; but in the end he would consent. One evening, when he came to look over his jail, he heard considerable more music coming from the jail than he had reckoned on, and found that the friends of the Mexican prisoners had brought their guitars and a few jugs of wine. The prisoners and friends were having a gay time.

Colton came to love Monterey. "The people of Monterey," he declared, "would rather dance than eat. Not even an earthquake would stop them."

Thus Monterey lived much as it had for three quarters of a century, but that life was soon to end, and abruptly. Two years after Admiral Sloat had seized Monterey, a stranger passing through the town remarked that gold had been discovered on the American River. But gold in California was an old story; it had often been found in California but never in any great amount. So little attention was paid to his story. But when other travellers told of rich deposits, Colton sent a messenger to investigate, and on his return with pockets full of nuggets, excitement broke loose. There was little sleep in the town that night; women were preparing food, looking over clothes, and packing saddle bags; the men were gathering equipment and arranging with friends to travel together to the gold-fields. Next day, Monterey was pretty well deserted.

Cal Tjader Quintet's Jazz Concert Stimulating

By Steve Crouch

In his third appearance in this area, Cal Tjader and his quintet provided an interesting exposition of modern swinging jazz and Afro-Cuban rhythms at Sunset Auditorium Monday night. Unfortunately, the staging provided by the sponsoring Monterey Jazz Festival fell far short of what might be expected from them.

Tjader, whose music has been in the forefront of modern jazz since he formed his own group some years ago, performed tastefully throughout. Differing from most other leaders who front musical aggregations, Tjader insists that other members of the group be heard. Consequently, he subordinates his vibraphone frequently to the development of the ideas of each of the others. As a result, each member of the group was heard to advantage.

The quintet has been improved by the addition of young Berkeleyite Lonnie Hewitt, pianist, who replaced recently-departed Vince Guaraldi. Hewitt's definitely Negro approach to his instrument integrates, to my taste, much better with the group than Guaraldi, whose great facility was hampered by his relative lack of ideas. Hewitt, whose technique could stand considerable improvement and who seems to run out of steam too easily, will certainly improve with further experience with the quintet.

The program itself was well-chosen, beginning with a tastefully executed Woodyn You? A complete change of pace followed with an almost traditional blues, Doxie, and a congo-like Afro Blues. It was in selections based on the blues that Hewitt stood out in sharp relief. Tjader's solo in Love Me or Leave Me and Hewitt's solo in Thelonius Monk's composition, Around Midnight, were outstanding. The high point of the evening, to me, was swinging Night in Tunisia. An original composition, Sigmund Stern Blues, was followed by a pair from Gershwin's Porgy and Bess: a beautiful Bess, You Is My Woman Now in which Tjader's vibraphone traced a delicate thread of sound through an extended solo and then an ingeniously chosen phrase from It Ain't Necessarily So led abruptly into Summertime.

The guest performer for the evening, Paul Horn of Los Angeles, seemed out of place with his alto saxophone, which did not seem to fit in with the group at all. Further, his playing on this instrument appeared to be no more than pedestrian. However, his delightful flute solo on We'll Be Together Again was very well done.

In the Afro-Cuban portion of the program, Mongo Santamaria brought out his bongos and conga drums for a series of Negro-Latin numbers. The amazing interplay between Santamaria, drummer Willie Bobo on timbales, and Al McKibbon on bass was the driving force behind the group in this segment. The evening ended with a real old rouser, Lover, Come Back to Me as an encore.

On the whole, the musical performance was stimulating and rewarding. Insofar as staging is concerned, it seems incredible that more prior effort did not go into balancing the sound system and to adequate lighting of the stage. In the ensemble playing, drummer Willie Bobo's cymbals frequently made it impossible to hear adequately the piano and vibraphones. A slight re-positioning of the microphone near the drums would have remedied this situation. It is in the category of lighting that the greatest criticism must be leveled. During the first half of the program, only the overhead stage lights were turned on so that the musicians appeared to be in silhouette against a half-lit back curtain. Half the fun of a jazz concert is in watching the faces of the musicians as they react to each other's performances. Lacking this, one might as well be listening to records. During the last portion of the show, the house spots were turned up and the previous deficiency was remedied.

Medleys' Program Pleasing Conclusion Of Concert Series

By F. T. Wurzmann

The last concert of the Monterey Peninsula Community Concert Association was presented at the Pacific Grove High School auditorium Tuesday night. The gifted artists, the Duo Pianists Bill and Pat Medley, brought this successful concert series to a most pleasing and enjoyable end.

This young and attractive couple played very musically and gave us a well balanced program. After devoting the first part of the program to arrangements of Johann Sebastian Bach, Mendelsohn and Rachmaninoff which were played very competently, the artists showed their great devotion and excellent technique in pieces which have been especially composed for two pianos: Milhaud's Scaramouche, Poulenc's l'Embarquement pour Cythere and an excellent arrangement of Saint-Saens' Dance Macabre. These three pieces which were performed with excellent flare and brilliance, represented for me the highest of the evening.

The grateful audience demanded and enjoyed three encores: Benjamin's Jamaica Rhumba, Medley's own arrangement of Oklahoma, and Debussy's Claire de Lune; the latter was played with real poetic sensibility.

A delightful concert of two very fine and promising artists of whom we will hear more in the future.

man with a title (R.A.A.)*

Why don't we just call this man a salesman...a "securities salesman?" Why the title *Registered Account Advisor? With pardonable pride, we think there's something special about a man who earns this title...something that's important to any investor. Like you, for instance.

Earning the title calls for hard work and a dedicated interest in a career of professional service. Only one in five applicants is accepted at Dean Witter & Co. for preliminary testing. Less than half of these qualify for our intensive six months, full time training program which follows.

From cashiering to commodities, bonds to brokerage, a man pursuing an R. A. A. must observe and absorb, department by department, the operations of a modern investment firm. Partners take a personal interest in this training for they and other key personnel are part of the "faculty." Final exams complete the program of study courses, lectures, industry tours and home work. But study continues throughout the career of an R. A. A. Frequent staff meetings, our twice daily market letter and regular research reports keep these men informed of investment opportunities for you.

Each title represents an investment on our part of approximately $7,000. It's a rewarding investment for us—and one that can pay dividends for you.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERMON

The ever-present light of the Christ, Truth, will be stressed at Christian Science services Sunday.

Keynoting the Lesson-Sermon entitled "Probation After Death," is the Golden Text from Isaiah (9:2): "The people that walked in darkness have seen a great light: they that dwell in the land of the shadow of death, upon them hath the light shined."

The power of this light is also brought out in selections to be read from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, including the following (215:12): "Whatever is governed by God, is never for an instant deprived of the light and might of intelligence and Life."

Included in the Bible passages to be read is this verse from Matthew (5:16): "Let your light so shine before men, that they may see your good works, and glorify your Father which is in heaven."

Samson Instead Of Saul To Open Bach Festival

After nearly a year of effort and overseas correspondence it has proved impossible to secure the conductor's score for Handel's oratorio Saul, programmed for the opening night of the 22nd Carmel Bach Festival, therefore, President of the Corporation Dene Denny announces, Samson will be presented.

Old favorites and a number of artists of national reputation, but new to the Festival platform, are scheduled to appear during the Festival week, July 20 to 26. Included are: Marie Gibson, Nancy Freudenberg and Francesca Howe, sopranos. Margery MacKay, mezzo-soprano and Nancy Pearce, contralto. James Schwabacher and Richard Riffel, tenors. Paul Hinshaw, baritone. Harold Enns and Carl Schultz, bass.

Instrumentalists: Randolph Hokanson and Charles Fulkerson, piano. Ralph Linsley, harpsichord; Ludwig Altman, organ. Willard Tressel, violin; Milton Thomas, viola. Raymond Fabrizio, flute; Raymond Duste, oboe and Ann Adams, harp. Alfred Frankenstein returns as lecturer.

Festival choral rehearsals are in full swing in southern California as well as in Carmel, with Angie Machado, Gilbert Boyer and Mrs. Salgo as assistants to Sandor Salgo, conductor and musical director.

FROM A LIBRARIAN'S NOTEBOOK

Ruth Galvin Thornburg, Librarian

A man named Mario Pei did a series of articles for Holiday magazine in which he discussed the important languages of the world, and out of these articles grew a series of books. The titles all began with the words Getting Along in . . . and the latest of these is Getting Along In Russian. In case you are adventurous enough to plan a trip to Russia, this is for you. It has a wealth of phonetic pronunciation, and hundreds of short phrases to help you ask questions and make your wants known. We thought we had the whole series of Mr. Pei's books but upon checking we find that we lack two others. They will be on order before you read this. As soon as they come we can get you along in French, Italian, Spanish, German, Portuguese, and Russian. Borrow the library copies, and then before you leave, buy a copy for yourself, because this is the type of thing you can carry in your pocket or bag and ask questions all over the country.

Robert Lee Scott, who wrote God Is My Co-Pilot, has recently written a biography of General Claire Chennault, and called it Flying Tiger, Chennault of China. General Scott flew for Chennault in China, and knew him and his methods. He was a sincere admirer of Chennault and his book is a tribute to a great man.

William Galbraith says that too many husbands are being turned into odd-jobs men by wives who flatter them into believing that they can do anything just as well as the men who are trained to do them. Better, even, maybe, if only they would rent a few tools and give the thing a try. It's getting to the place where a man has no leisure time, he is so busy doing all the things and fixing all the things and making all the things his wife wants done, and fixed, and made. Galbraith has figured a way out of many of these situations and in his book entitled How to Get Out of Doing It Yourself, he gives all the answers. Granted the book is aimed toward masculine readers, who's to know how many wives will read it too, and be ready with the quick answers.

Anne Freemantle has done volume one of a series entitled The Great Ages of Western Philosophy, this first volume being entitled The Age of Belief. It has to do with medieval philosophers and their theories. The author is an associate professor at Fordham University.

There are ten new novels, including one mystery. It's a funny thing, but it's a fact that people who ready only mysteries want us to buy only who-done-its and peowho read only mysteries want us to buy only straight fiction, and so it goes. You can't win for losing, somehow. Let's not get bitter.

New Comedy At Studio Well Done, Lots Of Fun

By Virginia Shaw

A high good time is to be had currently at The Studio theatre, where Betty Hackett and Royden Martin have put together a bright, breezy and neatly finished production of George Axelrod's sophisticated comedy, The Seven Year Itch.

It needs no laugh meter to establish that Mr. Axelrod touches on a situation which appears to find a strong empathetic response in the audience. The plot deals with the fall from fidelity of a fairly typical domesticated American male: at 34, possessor of a comfortable domicile (in this case a New York apartment), a minor editorial position with a paperback publisher, a charming wife and child, and an ulcer. But left to his own devices when his dependents take a summer sojourn at the seashore, this far-from-dashing hero finds leisure to reflect unhappily on approaching middle age and to acquire, in the seventh year of conventionally happy and honorable wedlock, a restless urge for a juicier slice of life. He builds up his sagging ego with Walter Mittyish fantasies involving his irresistibility to women, resumes the forbidden pleasures of cigarettes and liquor. Enter, then, the Girl upstairs; and exit, after many bumbles, fumbles and smitings of conscience, the hero's virtue.

The outcome of the whole situation seems to illustrate that a little extra-marital fling is a good thing all around, provided nobody gets sticky about it. But however you look at it, Mr. Axelrod leavens his thesis with a great deal of wit and imagination, and supplies his characters with a lively and frequently hilarious script.

As the little man with the itch, Clifford Berry is—to his personal credit—entirely devoid of the incipient paunch supposedly ascribed to Mr. Axelrod's hero, but otherwise provides a convincing, sympathetic and highly energetic portrayal. Myrtlerose Craig is the naive Eve of the piece, all burbles, bounce and artless animal appeal; in addition to filling the physical demands of the role quite delightfully, this young actress displays a really fine comic technique.

But it is Robert Binney, playing a fatcat psychiatrist, who steals every scene in which he appears. Equipped with a mobile physiognomy which can at one moment draw into a great pucker of fastidious distaste and in the next express the smirk of a dirty-minded schoolboy, Mr. Binney performs with complete finesse, and is wonderfully funny.

Sandra Six gives a crisp, stylish portrayal of the wife, who appears mostly as a figment of the hero's guilty fantasies. Arlene Woods, Joy Ware, Betty Cox and Lee Harbick appear attractively as the various leading ladies in the dream sequences. Blair Phinney does a smooth job in a sort of split-personality role as a neo-Hemingway novelist whom the hero fancies is a rival for his wife's affections.

William Glaves, who designed and directs the production, deserves much credit for the style and pace of the whole show. Both the set and the lighting were cleverly handled. Assisting in the production are Arlene Woods, stage manager, and Lee Harbick, props.

Chamber Music Group To Play Work Of Local Composer Sunday

The Carmel Chamber Music Society will present the third concert of its fourth season this Sunday afternoon, April 26, in the Carmel Woman's Club at 5 o'clock.

Of special interest will be a work of a local composer, Philippe Buhler. This is a Concertino for Piano and Chamber Orchestra. Gilbert Boyer will play the solo part, and the composer will conduct. Mr. Buhler, now resident on the Monterey Peninsula, was born in Switzerland. He studied at the Conservatory of Mulhouse in France, the Conservatory of Lyon, and a conservatory of music in Lausanne, before coming to the United States. He has earned degrees at the University of Strasbourg, France, and the University of Redlands (Calif.), and is now a naturalized American citizen. His compositions have been performed in Europe, as well as in various cities in the United States.

Another American composer, Wayne Barlow, will be represented by a solo for oboe, The Winter's Passed. This will be played by Lloyd Clapper, with Joseph Axup conducting the string orchestra.

The Society turns to traditional repertoire to display its winners of last month's student auditions, Katherine Thompson and Stephanie Craviotto.

Miss Thompson, a junior high school student in Salinas, will play a Suite in A-Minor for Solo Flute and Strings, by Telemann. Gilbert Boyer, founder and director of the Chamber Music Society, will conduct. Miss Craviotto, a Carmel High School graduate, now a music major at Santa Barbara College, will play Mozart's Piano Concerto No. 23, with Lloyd Clapper conducting the chamber orchestra.

The ensemble players for Sunday's concert will include strings: Eiko Yoshizato, Elizabeth DuVal, John Erickson, David Hagemeyer, Fred Herrmann, H.M.M. Nicholas, Charlotte Perry, Sheila Webster, Jerald Slavich, Lorell McCann, Marie Sale, Mary Dobel, Louise Friedhofer-Vadetsky, Edwin Culver; and winds: Lloyd Clapper, Emile LaChambre, Katherine Thompson, Robert Lee, Don Noren, Joseph Axup, Betty Axup, Terry McCormack.

Tickets for the concert are obtainable in Carmel at the Browse-Around Record Shop, and the Central Box Office. Sponsors of this series by the Chamber Music Society are: Mrs. A. M. Allan, Mrs. Rumsey Campbell, Mrs. James Cooke, The Reverend and Mrs. C. A. Dowdell, Miss Edith Jamieson, Mrs. Francesco Kanevski, and The Reverend H.M.M. Nicholas.

SONG OF THE MEADOW-LARK

In the fields of spring, where the silken catkins of willow
Rise from the pliable bough with a rush of rejoicing—
The song of the meadow-lark, sudden across the wild grasses
Leaps like a passage escaped from some mighty cadenza.

Piercing the roar of the highway, the delicate fluting
Flung like a garland of wild-flowers turned into music,
Lifts from the lowlands, tuned to some finer vibration
And passes unhindered through noise and commotion and traffic.

Under the winterless skies to the west of Sierra
Where the blossoming acres lie deep in their poppies and lupin
The lyrical song of the meadow-lark, crystal as water,
Rings through the spring and once heard shall be never forgotten.

THE SUN BEYOND THE SUN

My eyes, accustomed to the dark,
And knowing there uncommon light
Now find aggressive but less bright
The obvious flame, the audible spark.
Night that has grown more clear than day
Itself the gift, but not reward,
Illumines of its free accord
A world no vision can convey.
Along the corridors of pain
The rays undimmed by suffering run
Their light attending one and all.
Here is a paradox made plain,
As though a sun beyond the sun
Shone only where no sun could fall.

CUMULUS CLOUDS

Again the towering temples of the sky
In majesty appear upon the hills,
As all the lesser world goes rushing by
Upon the little errands and the ills.
The snowy columns, stately and serene
Reveal the god-like altitude of peace.
They rise above the restless human scene
Like noble minds that make things trivial cease
They stand like scripture high above all change,
As beautiful today as when the sun
Shone over Egypt and the hosts were hurled
In mortal strife, until from pinnae to range
Men saw beyond the battles never won
The tall dimensions of a grander world.

STATE OF THE UNION

We stand within bright halls of glass,
A stone could bring them crashing down.
Our minds, the stature of the grass,
On every word of wisdom frown.

We play beneath the trembling light
As though the walls were made of stone,
With no conception of their plight
And no attention to our own.

A crystal dome of unconcern
Too delicate to fortify—
Precarious home until we learn
To live beneath love's open sky.

Wilderness Of The West

A Monthly Column
by C. Edward Graves

2. POPULATION PRESSURE

At the recent Wilderness Conference in San Francisco, sponsored by the Sierra Club and other conservation groups, Dr. Raymond B. Cowles, eminent UCLA zoologist, read a paper on population problems in relation to wilderness preservation that is sure to stir up much discussion in the months to come. The problem comes home to us on the Monterey Peninsula, as we view the massive destruction of our forests now taking place on Carmel Hill to provide a highway interchange for the huge crop of motorists now in their cradles or even unborn. On the national scale its repercussions will be felt in many critical areas where controversies are even now beginning to make headlines.

Dr. Cowles warns that at the present rate of population increase each year's crop of children 50 years from now will be equal to the present U. S. population, 170 millions. He envisions the possibility that wilderness areas here and throughout the world would be wiped out by such a population "explosion." His remedy is to use the taxing power of government to slow down population growth. He suggests that governments of the world should increase a family's taxes after the birth of each child. To answer the cry of "unfair" he calls attention to the fact that it costs about $5,000 to pay for the education of a child through high school and therefore it is only fair that families pay higher taxes.

Whatever the answer is, there is no doubt that wilderness areas are fast disappearing all over the world and the process is speeding up instead of slowing down. What we have now in the way of wilderness is all there will ever be. Small wonder then that those conservationists who are unselfishly thinking of the needs of their grandchildren and great-grandchildren are opposing strenuously the efforts of developers to open up every last bit of wilderness to exploitation.

The Wilderness Bill at present before Congress (S. 1123) seeks only to set wilderness protection as a government policy. It does not offer proposals for establishing new areas. Nevertheless at the recent hearing on the bill in Seattle the main opponents were representatives of various Chambers of Commerce in the State of Washington. The struggle seems to be developing very clearly into one between those who see our pitifully small remaining wilderness in the light of commodity resources and those who feel that great spiritual inspiration, necessary for the well-being of any civilization, is to be found there.

The man whose life work is at present exercising the greatest influence on the thought and activities of the world, Christ Jesus, felt the need of recourse to the wilderness of his day for a freshening of inspiration. The Bible offers undeniable evidence of this fact. His great works were done among men. One of the greatest was whipping the money changers out of the temple, for which he paid with his life. Yet without the spiritual source of strength that he found in his temporary retreats to the mountains, to the deserts, to the other wilderness places of those days (now largely sacrificed to commodity resource values) it would have been difficult for him to bring his world-shaking work to a successful conclusion.

PARSONS' GARDEN IN MAG.

Dr. and Mrs. Robert Parsons of Taylor and Mesa Streets, Carmel, are so enthusiastic about outdoor living that they designed and built an "indoor-outdoor" garden room adjoining their home, which leaves them with no weather problems.

The Parsons' unique garden room and an aviary in their back yard which Dr. Parsons remodeled from an old shed are pictured in the May issue of The American Home to illustrate an article, Get the Most Out of Summer on Your Own Home Grounds.

"Whether you live on a postage-size lot or a many-acred estate," the article says, "there are things you can do to make the livin' easy —right in your own back yard."

Other ideas on how to expand your living and enhance your property are illustrated by photographs of a swimming pool and cabana, a children's playhouse, an easy-to-make patio shade, and split-level gardening.

LESLIE ON SEA DUTY

U. S. Navy Lt. (j.g.) Leslie L. Doolittle, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace E. Doolittle of Carmel has written an account of his participation in Operation Big Land to his parents. April 1 to 10, the exercise, designed to improve amphibious warfare tactics, involved 25 ships and 12,000 personnel. "The assault landings were in new troop carrying helicopters supported by naval gunfire, frogmen and air operations" wrote Leslie, "and we landed the Marines at Camp Pendleton." Lt. Doolittle who has already served two years of his 3½ years' enlistment, is aboard the USS Holmes County, a tank landing ship. He and Mrs. Doolittle and their six month old daughter are making their home in Coronado. "My small daughter Cynthia doesn't think much of my flying visits," Leslie reports, "Every time I leave home for duty she roars."

New Members Honored

Of the twelve new members of the Monterey Peninsula League who were honor guests at a tea given by Mrs. Matthew Jenkins in her Pebble Beach home on April 9, half the number were Carmel residents.

Mrs. William H. Godwin, Jr., the former Joan Frederick, is a graduate of the University of California where she majored in English. Despite having two young sons, William, two and half years old, and Michael, four months, Mrs. Godwin finds time to act as a staff aid for the Carmel Chapter, American Red Cross.

Mrs. John Donald Monroe (Margerie Kenner) comes from Southern California. They moved into their new home on Mesa Drive last January. Their daughter Lynne Kathleen is 15 months old. Mrs. Monroe teaches swimming for the Red Cross and the school for Retarded Children.

Mrs. Michael Elliott (Barbara Anne Frizzell), graduated from Carmel High School in 1953 and went on to San Jose State College. In 1956 she married Michael D. Elliott the son of Dr. and Mrs. Del L. Elliott of Pebble Beach. Michael, also a graduate of the Carmel High School class of 1953 is a surveyor with Del Monte Properties. Barbara is interested in Red Cross work.

Mrs. Patrick Dormody (Betty Hendricks) is the mother of Michael, age six, Tommy, four and a half and Kirk, age two years. Both Betty and Patrick graduated from Carmel High School in 1948 and they were married in 1952. Betty finds time in her busy day to work for the Red Cross and the Cancer Drive. Her avocation is sketching.

Mrs. John Kunstle (Betsy Cain) comes from Erie, Pennsylvania. It was when she and her husband, a native of Switzerland, visited Carmel six years ago that they decided it was the place to live and they have been here ever since. Their daughter Sylvia was born six months ago. Mrs. Kunstle enjoys tennis, skiing and sports car racing. She has given much of her time to service with the Logan Hall School for Retarded Children.

Mrs. Thomas Tonkin (Florence Karsladt) is a native of Glen Ellyn, Illinois. They came to Carmel from Berkeley in 1955, when Mr. Tonkin became administrator of the Community Hospital. There are three daughters, Jane, Martha and Shiela; and Mrs. Tonkin gives many hours to community service, including the Red Cross, Fort Ord Hospital Council.

Other new members of the League honored at Mrs. Jenkins' tea included Mrs. Michael Dormody of Carmel Valley; Mrs. Robert Chapman, Mrs. James B. Ramstead and Mrs. Edwin W. Reeves of Salinas; Mrs. Robert Chapman, Monterey Peninsula Country Club and Mrs. Joseph Turner of Monterey.

Ogden House Guests

Mr. and Mrs. Murle Ogden are entertaining Murl's sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. George E. Brown of Vernon, Connecticut. The Ogdens flew to San Francisco to meet their guests and spent the week-end there sightseeing. On Saturday night they were joined by their son Dick, who finished his service in the Marines three weeks ago. Dick will attend Monterey Peninsula College during the summer and enter University of California Agricultural College at Davis in the Fall. Asked what he liked best about the Marines Dick's answer is "football." The Browns, enjoying their first visit to Carmel, will stay for two weeks, dividing their time between the Ogden home and Carmel Valley where they will visit Mrs. C. E. Holman, Murle's and Mrs. Brown's sister.

The Busy Riders

Fred and Marcia (Kuster) Rider are a very busy pair these days. With the opening date (May 20) of the Stanford Music Department's opera The Count Ory to be presented in the University's new Opera Theater, Fred, as scenery designer spends much of his time on the road between Carmel and Palo Alto, and he will be on the campus this entire week-end. Marcia continues to teach ballet in Carmel for the Dorothy Dean Dance Studio.

Atomic Expert Here

Visiting Dr. and Mrs. Vincent D. O'Connor in their new home on Morse Drive is Dr. Wilhelm Kovats, a member of the European Atomic Commission currently touring United States. Dr. Kovats is the father of Lisl Kovats, now Mrs. Peter Hieszenberger of Vienna. Lisl was an exchange student who attended Carmel High School for one year, graduating with the class of '56. During her stay in Carmel, Lisl, who was born in Hunterbrul, Austria, made her home with the O'Connors. Dr. Kovats will rejoin the European Commission tomorrow in San Francisco.

Sands Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. C. Don Sands celebrated their twenty-second wedding anniversary last week-end at Lake Tahoe. The Sands came to Carmel from Oakland in 1948, and are the proprietors of The House That Jack Built. Their daughter Donna is a senior at Carmel High School and plans to go to San Jose State next September to major in education in view of teaching. Donna's younger sister Susan will graduate from Sunset School in June.

Marjorie is interested in the Parent Teachers Association while Don's membership cards include the Carmel Business Association, the Kiwanis Club and the Masons.

David Keeney Performs

Capt. and Mrs. Harold N. Heming were hosts to the Monterey Peninsula Hammond Chord Organ Club at their home at the Naval Post Graduate School on Sunday.

The program was presented by Mrs. Heming, Mrs. Homer Keeney and Mrs. O. Roy West. The Heming's son, 11 year old David, played four piano-accordion numbers, accompanied by Neil Armstrong.

The club's next meeting will be held at 2:30 o'clock on the afternoon of May 17 at the Graham Music Company, Carmel. Bud Iverson will be guest organist.

Chedester-Murray Reception

Patricia Carol Chedester, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul E. Chedester of Carmel, and John Pryor Murray of Pacific Grove, son of Mr. and Mrs. Duncan Murray, were married in Reno, Nevada April 12.

The romance of Pat and Jock started in their teens when they were both attending local high schools. Pat went on to Monterey Peninsula College and San Jose State, while Jock, after serving his stint in the Army, attended Claremont College.

The young couple was feted at a reception at the Morse Drive home of the bride's parents last Sunday afternoon. The wedding cake, accompanied by champagne, was decorated with ornaments that had first appeared on the cake of Mr. and Mrs. Chedester.

Mr. and Mrs. Murray will make their home in San Francisco where Jock is associated with an insurance firm.

Dinner for the Craig's

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Craig of Berkeley were the honor guests at a dinner party given by the Frederick Elstobs last Saturday. Also at the party was Carlotta Morton, creator of the Hometown cards (pen sketched landmarks of Carmel). Miss Morton is a member of the Carmel Art Association where her land and sea scapes, in oils, are frequently hung. She has also done botanical drawings that have appeared in a number of college text books. It was through an introduction made by Mrs. Craig that the Elstobs and Carlotta met when they first visited Carmel 13 years ago.

Extend Island Visit

Enjoying every moment of their visit to Honolulu, Mrs. J. Swinton Smythe and Mrs. Verne Skillman write that they may stay longer than the planned three weeks. But Mrs. Smythe writes that she will be sure to get back in time to repack her suitcases and go to Portage Point, Michigan, to attend the wedding of her granddaughter, Nancy Smythe Vaughan.

The Leidig's Golden Anniversary

On April 28 Fred and Clara Leidig will celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary, 50 years of married life in Carmel. It was at the turn of the century that Fred's mother, with her four young sons, came here from Illinois and the name Leidig has been woven into the pattern of Carmel's history. Fred's first interest was in the grocery business with his brothers. Their first store was located where the Bank of Carmel stands now. Later the store opened its doors where Derek Rayne's shop is today. Fred's interests turned from the grocery business to lumber, and his wood yards were the largest in the area. He retired some 30 years ago, but his interest in Carmel's progress, and preservation as a world beauty spot, has never wavered.

Mrs. Leidig was born Clara Belle Black in Blanco and lived through her youth in Salinas, graduating from Salinas high school.

It was in February 1907 that Clara travelled by horse and buggy from Salinas to attend a masquerade party in Carmel. She actually danced with Fred before she'd been introduced and she tells that when they un-masked she was "very surprised." Then Fred went courting, to Salinas, the horse and buggy covering the long miles with a will.

During the early years of their married life Clara was indeed a helpmate carrying the office responsibilities for her husband. Their two sons are Dale and Glenn. There are three grandchildren, Bryan and Margaret, son and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Leidig and Don, son of Glenn. As young Bryan Leidig was recently married Mrs. Leidig says that she now has an extra granddaughter, Sara.

The Fred Leidig home is now at San Carlos and Sixth. It was moved to that location 23 years ago. Its original site was at San Carlos and Seventh where it was built in 1913.

Next Thursday evening there will be a family dinner party. Mrs. Leidig says that she doesn't know just where as she and Fred are being taken out by the "children." The very special guests will be Mrs. Marguerite Anderson of Salinas, girlhood friend of Mrs. Leidig's and bridesmaid at that wedding of 50 years ago, and Robert Leidig, of Carmel of course, who was their best man.

Carmel Foundation Notes

On Wednesday afternoon at 3:00 o'clock Leslie C. Deck will show two films at Carmel Foundation Town House, both in color with sound, Wyoming Adventures, and a return showing by request of Valley of Light, scenes in Yosemite National Park. In addition there will be a ten minute film, subject as yet unannounced. Tea will follow the program.

Nancy Vaughan Engaged

From Lima, Ohio, comes the announcement by her mother Mrs. Charles Bradford Carpenter of the engagement of Nancy Smythe Vaughan to Roy Marion Whitacre, Jr. of Yerington, Nevada.

Nancy spent much of her childhood in Carmel with her grandparents, the late J. Swinton Smythe and Mrs. Smythe. Following her graduation from Carmel High School in 1955 she entered the University of Arizona and will graduate in June. She is a member of Alpha Phi and the honorary society, Phi Alpha Theta.

The groom-to-be, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy M. Whitacre of Yerington, Nevada, is a graduate of the University of Nevada. He served as a lieutenant in the army at Fort Lewis, Washington, and plans to enter law school next autumn.

An August wedding is planned.

Mrs. Diffenbaugh Club Speaker

Mrs. Harry Diffenbaugh, a graduate in floriculture and landscaping, will address members of the Carmel Woman's Club at their house and garden section meeting next Monday afternoon. She will place special emphasis on the exotic types of flora to be found in Carmel gardens; bird of paradise, clivias and cymbidiums. She will illustrate her remarks with colored slides. A plant donated by the speaker, will be given as a door prize.

Mrs. Samuel B. Moore will preside at the tea table, assisted by Mrs. C. U. Fonteneau, Mrs. Mary Doodden, Mrs. Elsie Pierre. Also, Miss Mary Margaret McIntyre, Mrs. Wallace Lowry, Mrs. D. L. Staniford, Mrs. Edward M. Becker and Miss Marjorie Pegram.

Kurt Gets Fellowship

A letter from Kurt von Meier to his mother, Mrs. Julian von Meier, tells of a three weeks' Easter vacation trip, away from his studies at the University of Madrid. An opportunity to practise his Arabic conversation was afforded in his tour of Morocco, Tunisia, Marakeech, Casablanca, Fez and the Berber country, then back through Gibralter, Seville and Granada, where he visited the Alhambra.

Among the letters awaiting his return was the following communication: "The faculty of the Graduate School of Princeton Uniservity has the honor to inform you that you have been selected as a junior fellow in the graduate school, and have been awarded a stipend of $1200." This fellowship will be renewable annually for three years study toward a Doctorate in Art History.

Kurt is now making the momentous decision whether to continue study in Spain or to accept the award to study at Princeton. Should he accept, the summer will be spent in a tour of museums and galleries in Germany, Italy, France and England. He also plans to attend the Salzburg Festival and the Wagner Festival in Bayreuth, where he will be the guest of Prof. Karl Meier-Gesees, his grandfather's cousin, who was tutor for Richard Wagner's children and is now historian for the Bayreuth Festival.

Dene Entertains the Salgos

The Madsens Entertain

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred L. Madsen of Carmel were host and hostess yesterday at a golden wedding reception at Del Monte Lodge given in honor of Mr. Madsen's sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Hascall of San Jose. Yesterday's wedding cake was an exact replica of the cake served fifty years ago and another repeat was the bride's bouquet of lillies of the valley. There were a number of guests present who had showered the bride and groom with rice as they left the doors of San Jose's Trinity Church. Assisting Mrs. Madsen in the receiving line was Mrs. C. A. Nedderson of Carmel and Mrs. Helen Fuller of Pebble Beach who had been bridesmaid at the wedding.

Mrs. Harthorn

A resident of Carmel for 41 years, Mrs. Shellie Victoria Harthorn died last Sunday after an extended period of failing health. She was 84 years old. Born in South America, Shellie Victoria Boggs spent her childhood there and in New York City where her father died. Her marriage to Dell Harthorn took place in 1882 in Los Angeles and her first visit to Carmel was in 1907 when she came to visit her mother who had remarried and was Mrs. Alice V. Cotton. The Harthorns came to live at Carpenter and 1st street in 1918. In addition to her husband Mrs. Harthorn leaves two sons, Laurence of Los Angeles and Terrill of Monterey, and two daughters, Mrs. Shellie C. May of Carmel and Mrs. Patricia Files of San Diego. There are seven grandchildren and 13 great grandchildren.

P.T.A. Scholarship Awards

The Carmel High Parent-Teachers Association will hold its first Scholarship Award program next Wednesday morning at 11 o'clock honoring 106 outstanding students.

This year's initial award pins have been provided by the Carmel Rotary Club, but from this year forward the awards will be financed by the P.T.A.

Edgar Bissantz, president of the P.T.A. will make the presentations to those boys and girls who during a semester have earned 10 or more points during a semester and whose names appear on the school honor roll. There are four pin classifications. The first time a student achieves 10 or more points he will receive a bronze pin, when he holds that level a second time the bronze pin will be replaced by one of silver; the third ten points earned will mean a replacement of the silver pin by a gold pin which the student may keep. Students who earn five or more awards will be presented with a gold pin set with a diamond and his name will be engraved on a bronze plaque for permanent display in the school.

As this is the first Awards presentation retroactive recognition will be given for meritorious work already accomplished by students presently enrolled in Carmel High School.

Warren Edwards, Carmel High principal states that the list includes: 45 students eligible to the bronze pin; 19 will receive the silver pin, 28 the gold pin, and 14 the diamond pin. This means that a total of 106 of our students have maintained a high A-B average in academic subjects and we are very proud of them.

The P.T.A. and Carmel High School faculty extend an invitation to all Carmel residents and their friends to attend Wednesday morning's Awards Presentations in the High School Gymnasium.

Church Women's Luncheon

Monterey Peninsula United Church Women will meet at Carmel's Church of the Wayfarer for the annual luncheon on Friday, May 1. Reservations must be made by Wednesday, April 29, with Mrs. John R. Christie FR 5-1245, or with the church office, MA 4-3550. Mrs. Christie, president of Wayfarer Woman's Auxiliary, and a committee of women from the four Circles, will prepare the luncheon.

The morning session, beginning at 11:30, will open with devotions by Mrs. Perry Swann, followed by Miss Margaret Westfall, representing a national committee on Military and Veterans' services, who will describe the work of church women in this field. The luncheon will be served in the recreation room at 12:30. In former years the society met for a May Breakfast, but the later meeting is more convenient.

At 1:30 the women separate into nine groups to discuss social and religious problems facing the world today, under the theme, "What is Enough?" The needs of migrant worker families, the training of mentally retarded children are among the topics considered. The groups then come together for brief reports on the findings. Leaders of the groups are Mrs. L. J. Fletcher, Mrs. Arthur Reum, Mrs. Jack Farrell, Mrs. George Gruber, Mrs. M. J. Carter, Mrs. L. O. Hazelrigg, Mrs. Mary Robinson, Mrs. O. H. Boji, and Mrs. Sylvia Lane.

Fifteen or more women's church organizations on the Peninsula are affiliated in the national United Church Women—it is also international—and they carry on social-religious and philanthrophic activities throughout the world as a branch of the World Council of Churches. Any women interested in the work are invited to attend this meeting.

May Day Artistry is displayed by Kelly Shores, Los Banos high school student, in time for the coming Merced County Spring Fair's art show. Kelly's picture was snapped by 11-year-old Linda Olds, amateur photographer, who plans to enter the photo show, a first for the fair in Los Banos this year. Fair dates and "It's May Day in Los Banos" are April 29 through May 3, and a new $60,000 Floral and Art Building will be ready for this year's exhibitions.

Two CHS Seniors Win State Scholarships

Two Carmel High School seniors have been notified that they are winners of California State Scholarships. Jo Ann Johnston, the daughter of Lt. Col. Franklin V. Johnston, U.S.A. Ret. and Mrs. Johnston was born in Panama where her father was on tour of duty. It was when Colonel Johnston was serving in Korea that the family first came to Carmel and Jo Ann enrolled at Sunset School, in 1953. After one year the family went to Japan for a year. Returning to Carmel, Jo Ann became a Freshman at Carmel High School. During her sophomore year she attended Santa Catalina School for Girls and returned to Carmel High School for her junior and senior years. In addition to the State Scholarship, Jo Ann has been notified that she is eligible to a scholarship at Occidental College. Her major subjects are mathematics and science.

Philip White, also winner of a California State Scholarship is the son of Mrs. Eleanor Montross White of Eighth and Torres streets. He was born and spent his early childhood in Aboline, Texas. When the family came to Carmel, Phil entered the eighth grade at Sunset School and from Sunset went on to Carmel High. His brother, Anthony, is now a senior at Stanford, and that is where Phil hopes to go next September. A member of Carmel High football team and a tracker, he says that he will go in for track at college, and major in engineering.

Six Carmel District Schools Welcome Everybody Next Week

The Carmel Unified School District's six schools completed plans yesterday afternoon for celebrating Public School Week, April 27 through May 1. Parents and other interested persons are invited to visit the schools at any time during the week, and the following special activities have been arranged at the various schools.

Carmelo: Open House on Wednesday evening, 7:30 to 9:00 o'clock in all classrooms.

Tularcitos: Open House Thursday evening (April 30) in all classrooms, with a general meeting scheduled in the multi-purpose room at 7:30 o'clock, where an operettta will be presented by the fifth grade under the direction of Mr. Gene Perrine, and several square dances will be done by Mrs. Theresa Burdick's second grade. Preceding the 7:30 general meeting, Mrs. Dorothy Estill's first grade will present a special program in Room 5, and at 8:00 o'clock Mrs. Betty Mackey's room will present two shadow plays for parents of the seventh and eighth graders in room 14.

Woods: Annual May Festival, Friday noon (May 1) at 1:00 o'clock on the kindergarten playground.

Sunset: Tuesday evening at 7:30 o'clock. Open house in all classrooms with exhibits, samples of students' work, with a special program in the auditorium at 8:15, featuring Sunset's Band, directed by Arthur Holman; Girls' Glee Club, directed by Mrs. Louise Fenn, and trampoline acts, supervised by Neil Smith.

High School: Scholarship Awards Assembly, Wednesday morning, 10:45 o'clock in the auditorium to which the public is invited.

Two service clubs have arranged for luncheon meetings at the schools, the Hi-12 at the high school Friday (May 1) and the Carmel Kiwanis Club at Sunset Thursday (April 30).

Children's Show At Hill Theatre

The Hill Theater now offers a new package of pictures especially selected to entertain the little people every Saturday. The Children's Guild Show will feature Treasure of Pancho Villa plus five cartoons this Saturday, starting at 1:00 o'clock.

The programs are designed to fill that need for vicarious enjoyment for the youngsters which, in turn, affords a few free hours for parents.

AMERICAN TRUST COMPANY BUYS P. G. SCHOOLS BONDS

A $450,000 bond issue of Pacific Grove Unified School District was purchased last week by an investment group headed by American Trust Company, San Francisco.

The American Trust group won the issue over four other bidders with an offer of par value plus a premium of $250. Net interest cost to the school district will be 3.3938 per cent.

The bonds are being reoffered at yields ranging from 2.10 to 3.45 per cent.

Everybody Delighted With Big Beautiful Red Cross Ambulance

In the bright sunshine of Tuesday noon Carmelites gathered at the Devendorf Plaza to witness the dedication of the new Carmel Chapter American Red Cross ambulance.

Streamlined, shining white, with its ruby red dome light revolving and flashing the ambulance, with Driver Barney Roberts at the wheel, pulled up to the Ocean Avenue curb winning enthusiastic exclamations of praise from the audience. In the absence of Mayor John Chitwood, the dedication address was given by Councilman Tom May. "In representing Mayor Chitwood, "I want to pay tribute to the citizens of Carmel whose generous gifts have made this ambulance possible," said May. "To the volunteers who during the Drive gave unstintingly of their time and energies, and to the staff at Carmel headquarters . . ."

Red Cross vice-chairman Edgar Bissantz, introduced by Mr. May, gave highest praise to members of the Carmel Volunteer Fire Department who, in full uniform, were present. "These are the men who 24 hours a day, every day in the year, will answer emergency calls to transport the injured or ill to the hospital. They are Red Cross trained to give first aid to the injured (our ambulance is equipped with crash bars and tools for the lifting and separation of wrecked vehicles). They are fully qualified to operate the Emerson resuscitator, also an ambulance accessory. The great thing is that these men are 100% volunteer and no matter what the hour, or what they are doing, they answer the emergency swiftly. We feel that they deserve the heartfelt thanks of every citizen in Carmel."

A note of gaiety was brought to the ceremony by the Cheer and Song Leaders from Carmel High School. Uniformed in their scarlet sweaters and skirts, Carla Budd, Phyllis Clayton, Wendy Draper, Gay Fremier, Sharon Heisler, Susie Mosolf and Hilary Teague formed a bright and smiling color guard. In order to demonstrate the spacious comfort of the ambulance, four of the girls took to the stretchers, quite literally. As a resounding finale the automatic siren was demonstrated.

Miss Dorothy James, executive secretary of the Carmel Chapter, Dr. Margaret W. Barnes and Mrs. Edward P. Marcucci, were the guests in a post-ceremonial ride down Ocean Avenue.
